Pincher Station was the scene of a tragedy on Saturday morning last when Albert Todd, of Polson, Montana, was found beside the railroad track dead. Nobody, so far as is known, was witness to the tragedy. The body was found lying on its face with the clothes being burned. Burial took place on Saturday evening at the Pincher Creek cemetery.

on Saturday afternoon and a verdict of death by misadventure was rendered. Apparently the unfortunate man had tried to jump off the train while it was still moving and in falling had fractured his skull and had set some matches alight in his pocket in the fall, thus accounting for the clothes being burned.

Burial took place on Saturday evening at the Pincher Creek cemetery.

Bellevue Suffers $150,000 Fire

Business Section of Prosperous Mining Town is Wiped Out:

The most serious fire in the history of this section of the Crow's Nest Pass swept the business section of Bellevue practically off the map on Tuesday forenoon, destroying over twenty buildings and causing damage to the extent of about $150,000. The fire is believed to have originated in a small barn at the rear of the Southern hotel, and the flames were seen to break loose at about 7:45 a.m. An alarm was made and in a short time large numbers of people were gathering around the scene. Efforts to stop the flames, however, proved futile, owing chiefly to an inadequate water supply, and in but a few moments the flames had spread to the Southern hotel and the adjoining buildings in that block. Efforts to stop the progress of the fiery elements proved entirely futile, until several blocks, including all but three of the business houses of the town were reduced to ashes, and had it not been for the splendid protection afforded by the Wheeler-Farmer building, the only building of fire-proof construction in the town, scarcely a house on the Company town site would have remained standing. The flames were fanned by a brisk breeze from the north, but later veered more from the west, which relieved somewhat the anxiety of people of the residential section, who had already gathered up their belongings and removed them to places of safety.

Efforts were made to save the contents of the stores, but the flames swept through them so rapidly that scarcely anything of value was saved. The buildings and stocks destroyed included: The McCutcheon Block, part of which was occupied as refreshment parlors. Loss estimated at $9,000, on which we understand there was a small amount of insurance. Cole's poolroom. Pool tables only were saved. Barber's chairs and equipment and pool room and bowling alley destroyed with building. Loss about $4,000, partly covered by insurance.

Eagle Block, owned by T. M. Burnett, together with large stock of hardware supplies. Building and stock said to be worth about $6,000, partly insured. Several cars of flour were stored here but a few days previous.

Oppidell's Hall and furniture and regalia, valued at $1,000. Insured for $500.

Eagle's Hall and furniture and regalia, valued at about $500.

Evans Bros.' Livery and Feed Stables, together with large quantity of hay, oats, etc., and harnesses and other stable and garage equipment, valued at about $9,000. No insurance, policy having expired several days previously.

Southern Hotel, owned by Mrs. J. B. Rudd, together with several outhouses, valued at about $10,000. No insurance.

Storehouses adjoining Southern Hotel, also owned by Mrs. Rudd. Valued at about $1,400. No insurance.

Bellevue Cafe, Mar Ling & Co., proprietors. Building and equipment valued at $8,500.

Partly insured: Lyric Theatre, operated by C. W. Johnston and owned by the Lyric Theatre Co., loss about $4,000, partly covered by insurance.

T. M. Burnett's store and postoffice and all contents. Loss estimated at $4,000, only partly insured.

Store and contents of the Bellevue Trading Company, valued at about $7,500, partly covered by insurance.

Bellevue hotel. Loss about $12,000. Partly insured.

Stable east of hotel and contents. Loss about $2,000, partly covered by insurance.

The Boston Cafe, owned by Mac Ki & Co., valued with contents at about $4,000. Insured for $2500.

P. Burns & Co. store and stables, valued at $4,000. Insured.

Italian pool room and barber shop. Value about $2800, partly covered by insurance.

The extent of about $8,000 to the building of Wheeler & Farmer and stocks of Haddad Bros. and A.R. Williams.

Damage to stock of Bellevue Pharmacy about $1000.

Other buildings, including the hospital and residence of Dr. MacKenzie were considerably damaged by fire and water.

A number of patients were removed from the hospital when hope of saving that institution had been abandoned. Firemen and fire apparatus were quickly on the scene from Coleman, Hillcrest, Blairmore and Frank, and rendered good service.

The Bellevue bridge was somewhat scorched, sufficient to make it dangerous to traffic and has been fenced off for the protection of the public.

Fire underwriters were on the scene on Wednesday, and it is expected that the work of rebuilding will go ahead immediately. There is talk of a number of fire-proof buildings of modern type replacing the frame structures.

During the progress of the fire, many thefts were committed, and we learn that the authorities will bring quite a number of parties known to have stolen goods in their possession to justice.

We learn that most of the business people have started up in temporary quarters and are reporting "business as usual." P. Burns & Co. have opened up in a building just west of Geo. Knowles' blacksmith shop, and have already started to clear away the ruins to commence work on the foundation. For a larger and more permanent structure on the old site. Contractors are on the grounds and we hope by next week to be able to report the plans for the rebuilding of Bellevue's business section.

Caught By Handwriting

What Happened to German Spy In the Canadian Army

Arkady Sidorovich Mepkin sat in a trench reading a letter which filled him with amazement. The letter was from his mother.

"Dear Arkady Sidorovich," the important part ran. "Do not despair. We are having a glorious time. The German spy who has been already secured 40 days and expect you are entitled to a hundred days. You have been wounded several times. But you must make haste for soon all will have been discovered. You are in raskin's land, the most fertile in the province. Your wife and children are well."

This was news, but it was not the news that caused Arkady Sidorovich to be so surprised. It was the handwriting. His brother had always employed the village post to write his letters, but Arkady Sidorovich knew that this letter was in the postman's hand.

He had been in the army reluctantly. They were better now, thanks to favorable weather. Some of the men were writing home, others of them talking together excitedly. A few had already deserted to go home. Of the remaining men, some seemed anxious to follow, but fully half had the company, having got a full supply of bandages and bandages and a full frolic from the day to day. As the commander of the regiment had been placed under arrest, every one did as he pleased.

There was talk of crossing a new country, of everything, according to the choice of Conrade Jensen as colonel. Conrade Jensen was a company commander, but well known for all that. He had come from the front from Petrograd, a short, plump, light-skinned man. His strange accent was due to his having been born and raised in western Europe. Friendly and as sure of himself as any man in the army, he became even more so when he had a fine uniform. More or less he was liberal. When men spoke of going home he would urge them earnestly to do so, and when he had a fine uniform, he would urge them to stay.

"But I can't blame you. You have entered a good deal."

Arkady Sidorovich suddenly rose, and walking quietly in his bare feet, approached the hut where Conrade Jensen was sleeping.

It was late in the afternoon, a time when the good natured Jensen always had a quiet time. He was not formally in command of the regiment then, but was at the head of the Arkady Sidorovich, who was most respectfully, but got no answer. The door was ajar, and he intruded his head just enough to see that Conrade Jensen was sleeping. A glimpse and he would go away, to return later for advice on the subject of the letter from home.

Crushing his neck to the look of the sheet of paper, written upon, lay an up-tilted glass. With a gleam of light, he saw that the sheet of paper was near Arkady Sidorovich's eyes. He snatched it up, and in it he saw the names of men who had deserted. Other names, including that of Arkady Sidorovich, were on the sheet, but a single check against them. A note at the bottom of the sheet explained by a mark that it was a forged soldier's letter. One check mark meant "geschriften"; two check marks meant "geschriften."

But another sheet caught the eye of Arkady Sidorovich. It seemed to be part of a letter, and the writer died: "Come home, Pavel Aleksandrovich," it ran. "Do not delay. We are being divided and—"

The handwriting. With a great groan, Arkady Sidorovich went to see Conrade Jensen entering the hut. For a second he was silent, then burst into a hoarsely little and young; he is marvelously active. He eats little. Twenty minutes' sleep is enough for him, and he is never tired. He makes his plans and follows all his schemes with chevrons; everyone knows that. Brusiloff is eager for action, eager to end the war, and he is a good soldier. He inspires trust in good men, fear in bad men, and respect in all who know him. He is a good man, and safety depends on the occupying troops not moving about.

The use of high-speed motor boats of fast speed has chaptered to the river. They have been built. Lack of speed restriction on our inland lakes and rivers has encouraged the use of motor boats. In fact, many accidents are due to his running down and swamping rowboats and small boats, as well as canoes, with other motor boats.

These accidents are avoidable, and the following application of safety first principles would save to Canada many needlessly wasted lives.

Assist in the work of preventing accidents for your own sake and for the good of our country at large.

Benefits Of Fresh Air

Proper Ventilation Essential to Good Health and Efficiency

Fresh air is one of our unlimited natural resources, available to all. Proper ventilation is essential to life and good health. Of recent years more attention has been given to the subject, and with regard, but far too many people regard fresh air as a means for the prevention of disease, especially of tuberculosis; it is not adequately recognized as the greatest disease preventer.

Nature has done her part in supplying pure air. Whatever the opportunity may be, we should always take advantage of natural methods.

Man, however, has rendered this effectual service, by the construction of buildings, houses, factories and offices, almost air-tight, in which the air becomes stale and impure.

The consequence is that the occupants, continuously breathing the air, rapidly become dyspeptic and incapable of performing their work effectively.

et al. in the empire. Even in the dark days, now happy past, when our men were few, when machine guns were very scarce, and when we had little artillery and less ammunition, the same optimism prevailed.

The British soldier was not a good soldier, but he was a good soldier.

Now it is different. The Canadian soldier falls, but the message would most probably be—In good cheer, send us more and pray for our return.

But I am wandering, so I will return to the opening sentence that the 5th Battalion had many friends.

Inside Influence

According to the Daily Express, personal friend of the Empress Zita of Austria has informed certain members of the British Cabinet that the Empress is exercising herself strongly in the interest of France. She is to be seen in Paris, and has even over Emperor Charles to induce him to try to withdraw from the Austro-Hungarian war with Germany.
Austro-Hungary is unable to take such action.

"Is Mr. Flubdub busy?" asked the distant customer.

"Mr. Flubdub is always busy," replied the customer.

"Well, let him stay busy. And that's what Mr. Flubdub has a big order."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Pertinent Extracts

From the Report of the Great War Veterans' Association Before the Parliamentary Committee, Ottawa.

The Officers, Executive Committee, Members, and Membership of the Great War Veterans' Association of Canada, request the General Secretary, in view of the difficulties in the present situation, to give their urgent need for reinforcement. "And whilst those who have given, and will give, have had no personal all-purposed private interest, but the best interest of the country, for the safety of their country, and the safety of any legislation, however extreme, which will meet conditions fully, and cause a more equitable distribution of duty and sacrifice amongst all citizens of Canada."

We urge the adoption of the following similar measure:—

(1) That all departments of the Government, as far as possible, shall be open to the men of our country at all times, ships and aircraft, most whatsoever, between the ages of 18 and 45, who are involving military service, and that they be given the same pay and rank in training, as for every other service, and that the cost of the uniforms be not necessarily transferred in which event the place of the men so called in the department shall be filled as soon as possible by competent returned soldiers first, and by persons second.

(2) That all officers, N.C.O.'s, and men now employed in naval and home service duty, who are fit for overseas service, and have received recognition for their services, be given the same pay and rank in overseas service, as for every other service, and that the Canadian Defence Forces who are physically fit to be discharged and brought under the new order.

(3) That wherever possible, in the interests of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, military service be employed and their places could be efficiently filled by returned soldiers, older men and men ineligible for military service, and we trust that these men, when so employed, will be given the same pay and rank as for every other service, and the cost of the uniforms be not transferred to the Allies and the need no longer exists. We feel that men in non-essential industries, and others who have given their services, should be given the same pay and rank as for every other service, and that they be first impressed for military service.

(4) That all alien, enemy or otherwise, resident in Canada, be also conscripted for any service within the Government's domain to their full capacity, to the best of their ability.

(5) That all factors, public utilities, and general industries necessary to the immediate successful conclusion of the war be taken over and conducted by the Government. Such compensation to be made to the present owners and shall be just and equitable.

(6) That it shall require that all incomes and wealth, in excess of the holder's reasonable needs, be placed at the disposal of the Government for the use and meet the immense financial drain on the country, equitable retribution to be made as soon as after the end of the war as possible so that the principles may be carried out in the spirit of the original suggestion, that all shall give their best for the preservation of the nation.

(7) That if any general system of compulsory service is put in force, the Government, which is the body corporate, the people of Canada make the provision for those who may be disabled in the service and the dependents of those who have been, or may be sacrificed in their country's cause, and that a definite and comprehensive understanding be made to that effect.

Let us first consider the desirability of having the work of demobilization carried out alongside a civilian line, with a complete separation from military or semi-military organization. The object to be attained is to have the men, for a greater part of two or three years except the preparation for, and actual carrying out of a soldier's life and return, then to peaceful, useful and productive citizens.

As conditions prevail in Canada today, we have a Board of Commissioners, Military Hospitals Commission, Soldiers' Aid Commission, or similar body, and various other institutions, all concerned in the care of the men. It would be difficult to arrive at a suitable plan to deal with the various problems. We very readily affirm the conditions are very much better because of the work already accomplished by the men in the various institutions. To those, however, who have had occasion to have dealings with them, the amount of overlapping is very apparent. It is almost impossible to determine when the man is fit for any matter regarding adjustment. One is sent first to one individual and then the other, and it is exceedingly difficult to obtain results. This necessitates delay and often much trouble, and the dependents or dependents shall be entitled to the full disability pension, and the Government shall bear the cost of the man in the institution.

(8) That a pension once awarded, after a man's disability has reached its final condition, shall not be changed to a man's disadvantage. (This is taken from the British Pension Scheme.)

(9) That very severe fiscal difficulties are included under the heading of total disablement. (British Pension Scheme) and make possible a more indefinite method of dealing with the various problems respecting returned men, and dependents of deceased soldiers, we beg to submit:

(1) That a Department be created to handle all the affairs of the veterans, and other Departmental, the Government, to be known as the Department of Demobilization, to which shall be referred all matters in connection with Returned or Discharged Soldiers and the dependents, including strictly non-partisan and business lines and to continue until the end of the year.

(2) That the new Department shall be headed by a Director of Demobilization, who shall be directly responsible for the conduct of his Department, and shall be given powers sufficiently broad to cover immediate disposition in any matter, and that the Director be given the right of any legislation, however extreme, which will meet conditions fully, and cause a more equitable distribution of duty and sacrifice amongst all citizens of Canada.

We urge the adoption of the following similar measure:—

(1) That all departments of the Government, as far as possible, shall be open to the men of our country at all times, ships and aircraft, most whatsoever, between the ages of 18 and 45, who are involving military service, and that they be given the same pay and rank in training, as for every other service, and that the cost of the uniforms be not transferred to the Allies and the need no longer exists. ## Scarcity of Food Much Less

Allies Cannot Hope to Conquer Enemy by Starvation

A special correspondent who has just returned from an extensive trip through Germany and Austria, goes to the conclusion that there is no real impression that the allies should not hope to conquer the enemy by starvation. The reason is that the food is much less than a short time ago, because vegetables are plentiful in all countries.

The correspondent was with the Austrian troops on the Isonzo front, the Italian front, the Tyrol, the Carso region only water was needed. Yet there were more two litres of oil per day.

In Vienna the correspondent stood in crowds lined before the Market Hall, the Central Station, and the like. Nowhere did he hear any one express a desire for peace. They complained of the lack of sugar, of the small bread ration. But they said, in effect, rather sternly: "This is being going on for three years. Why not for two more years?"

These Vienna people hope to be convinced that if they closed their eyes and "extincted" their palates, with their hearts accustomed to any substitute for any food.

Facilitating Train Movements In U. S.

American Roads Taking Drastic Measures to Speed Up Freight Shipments

In order to facilitate train movements and reduce passenger train crews, the railroads of the United States are making drastic reductions compared with those in Canada this year. It appears mild. Thus, for instance, the Pennsylvania railroad has eliminated all passenger train crews, thus double the number taken of the whole of the Canadian railways. This will be followed by the New York Central, by an amount equivalent to 2,268,000 train miles per annum, or over 150,000 miles per day. A number of parlor cars, restaurant cars and observation cars are being withdrawn from Boston and Maine has taken off no less than 255 trains, or more than five times the number of trains, amounting approximately 41,000 train miles per week. Strenuous efforts are also being made to increase the movement to and from the ports and to impress the merchants of the importance of rapid unloading so that the grain can be shipped and terminals should be kept clear. The American railroads render the greatest aids they can give to help win the war and according to all reports are making remarkable results. It is up to Canadians to see that Canada is not left behind in this patriotic race.

New Promotion Regulations

The Canadian Associated Press understands that new regulations have been issued giving the promotion and discharge of officers of the Canadian overseas forces. Promotion will be by selection based on efficiency and merit. The length of service must be considered. It is learned that special orders have been issued to Canadian forces in England to be supplied on their despatch overseas with Canadian in the best condition and properly broken.

The Wrong Flag

Only the Union Jack Should Be Flown on Land in Canada

If a flag is to be regarded properly as a bit of bunting that may be used, along with any other kind of colored cloth, to denote a particular body need feel concerned as to the manner in which it is used. But the manner in which it is used, the national symbols, there should be an intelligent study of them so that there is no greater stress than there is in such meetings held.

Although frequent efforts have been made to have the proper flag to be flown in Canada there is still lamentable lack of knowledge of the subject and a widespread lack of the proper flag.

Even in quarters to which the government might be inclined to give guidance, the mistake is made.

Other advice from the same source says that when a flag is flown on land three hours, bearing one of the longest on record since July, 1914, when Emperor William the second, of Germany, preceded the declaration of war.

The ministers of both the empire and the dominions have been gathered with the members of the empire and naval cabinets.

It is believed that the mistake is made in the treatment of accident cases.

And all who like to see the National flag, should take the trouble.

Three Mammoth Improvements

England Ready for Tunnel Under the Channel

Great Britain is contemplating three mammoth improvements in communication—a tunnel to France under the English channel, a tunnel connecting England and Ireland and a canal between the Firth and Clyde river.

The first project is so far advanced that a writer in a newspaper in London has outlined a model village, according to which the tunnel would cost 5,000, which will house workers and their families at the end of the tunnel on the side of the channel.

It is estimated the work will take six years in the most favorable circumstances.

Work on the tunnel will be vigorously prosecuted, the project the British government has given to the French Channel Tunnel company even though the French are not ready to do their share.

The French participants in the project are ready to do their share, but the English government has not yet decided upon the amount of the necessary capital, despite the financial difficulties.

The French government, many years ago made available for the forces of the empire, was in Berlin, according to an Exchange Telegraph despatch from Amsterdam.

POTENTIALITY OF AIRPLANE FOR MILITARY USES IS DEMONSTRATED

FUTURE OF THE AIRPLANE AND THE SUBMARINE

It Is Very Difficult To Set Limits To Effectiveness of Airplanes Used in Large Numbers In Destroying Enemy Gun-Making And Munition Plants, Paralyzing Military Activity

The unprecedeted achievement of the French aeronaut, Sergeant Gallioli, in wiping out single-handed a large section of the Krupp munition works at Essen, Germany, is one of the most notable adventures in the history of the war. There was nothing accidental about it. He knew what he had to do to plan his route and stuck to it; he flew across Essen, Germany, and bombed the works, and he returned to the spot whence he had started seven hours before. The distance covered during the interval was nearly four hundred and sixty-seven miles. Fortunately he was left un wounded, and practically unharmed, in this strenuous adventure.

Interesting as the achievement of Gallioli is, it is even more important that, as no previous incident has done, the potentiality of the airplane for military purposes has been demonstrated. No one can say that a man can fly so far without injury and do so much harm to the enemy by dropping bombs on his gun-making and munition plants, paralyzing establishment out of business, would go far to paralyze military activity and destroy the military efficiency of the German empire.

For some time past there has been developing here and there in the military and naval experts to institute comparisons or contrasts between the functions of the airplane and the submarine. In a recent public address, Secretary Baker of the War Department, in the course of which he made the announcement that "American skill and ingenuity, American scientific and technical knowledge, and the available resources of supplies shall be drawn upon, and we shall continue to do so, to develop the airplane as the art," so that the efficiency of military operations may be maintained.

Perry, of North Pole fame, suggested that small but swift seaplanes might be used to sweep the oceans, capturing by housing them on a "mother" warship, from whose decks they could be sent out to search for submarines and drop bombs on them with fatal effect.

The airplane and the submarine are the two most interesting developments in the field of warfare, and it is most interesting to watch their future evolution, respectively.—Toronto Globe.

Flock to Canada

Bruce Walker Says it is Certain Thousands Will Come After War is Over

"All investigations lead to the definite conclusion that there is a tremendous demand of Imperial army ex-servicemen to Canada after the war," declared Bruce Walker, commanding officer of the 10th Battalion, which has just returned from London. Mr. Walker has been in the Old Country for a month, and in his opinion the service Settlement committee, in connection with the settlement of soldiers, will be used to subdue the submarine menace, that his ship was chased for many miles by a submarine and that for four consecutive days he was unable to get away from the enemy craft. The ship zig-zagged for miles out of his course, and he was less fortunate, and those on deck saw it sink after a few minutes' fight, about nine o'clock.

Referring to the settlement of soldiers, Mr. Walker commented on the conditions of service to the certain the opinions of all members, and we are abundantly satisfied that a man who has been in the service, and has not been in sedentary occupations will not return to such work, but will seek to get into the field again, and gratifying to the interests of the overseas dominions. It is generally recognized in England that the Canadian government, by the Canadian government, are more attractive and provide greater opportunities for service in any other overseas dominions. As soon as the war is over demobilization takes place, and if the necessary transport and equipment can be provided there will be a tremendous immigration, and particularly to the western provinces.

Age and Woman's Vote

One of the reasons given for fixing the age of universal voters in the United Kingdom at thirty years is that in the country, more women would be eligible to vote at twenty-one years, the age at which men may vote. In the case of their wives, and the mothers of their sons, would give the weight of political power to the females of the species.

It is estimated that this year 75,000 "additional" acres are under vegetable cultivation in New York City. Formerly real estate agents insisted that home buyers should plant nothing but flowers, shrubs or trees. This year the agents have not only relaxed that condition but they have given up every foot of vacant land to vegetable cultivation. In some cases they themselves had the land prepared for sowing and planting and others anybody willing to till them could take the vacant lots, practically for nothing or for a small percentage of the produce.

Several committees had the work of management in hand, one being known as the Food Supply Committee and another as the Committee on Food Gardens. These committees obtained a hundred car-loads or 90,000 bushels of seed potatoes from Maine for distribution.

They also supplied other seedlings, and before the Food Gardens committee was formed there were twenty organizations doing the work they are now doing. The Park Commissioners of Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx are at the head of the movement in each of their districts. In the first week of its work the committee apportioned out from previously waste and meadow land 1200 plots of an average size of a quarter of an acre. Even the golf clubs around the city have gone in for production by ploughing up portions of their links. Well-to-do people generally have shown a disposition to help, either by surrendering land, subscribing money or loaning implements.

Well-to-do people generally have shown a disposition to help, either by surrendering land, subscribing money or loaning implements.

It is estimated that this year 75,000 "additional" acres are under vegetable cultivation in New York City. Formerly real estate agents insisted that home buyers should plant nothing but flowers, shrubs or trees. This year the agents have not only relaxed that condition but they have given up every foot of vacant land to vegetable cultivation. In some cases they themselves had the land prepared for sowing and planting and others anybody willing to till them could take the vacant lots, practically for nothing or for a small percentage of the produce.

Several committees had the work of management in hand, one being known as the Food Supply Committee and another as the Committee on Food Gardens. These committees obtained a hundred car-loads or 90,000 bushels of seed potatoes from Maine for distribution.

They also supplied other seedlings, and before the Food Gardens committee was formed there were twenty organizations doing the work they are now doing. The Park Commissioners of Manhattan, Brooklyn and the Bronx are at the head of the movement in each of their districts. In the first week of its work the committee apportioned out from previously waste and meadow land 1200 plots of an average size of a quarter of an acre. Even the golf clubs around the city have gone in for production by ploughing up portions of their links. Well-to-do people generally have shown a disposition to help, either by surrendering land, subscribing money or loaning implements.
